

Records Review Study

A study of how experienced professionals judge AI-assisted records, read on their own.

Prepared for: Wendy Ann Martel (Canada, Quebec)

Proposed role: Independent reviewer (your own professional judgment)

A note on the invitation: it would be a privilege to have you take part. What this study needs is exactly your independent, experienced judgment on a set of records, nothing more. There is no method to learn and no material to study beforehand.

Everything is done at one link. About an hour total, and you can stop and resume:

www.jrsstandard.com/ai-records-arm-b.html?code=RR-129

PURPOSE

This study looks at how experienced professionals evaluate AI-assisted records. As AI is used to draft more records, some read as complete and professional while others may not be fully supported by what is on the page. We are gathering the independent judgments of experienced reviewers on a balanced set of such records.

WHAT YOU WILL DO (ALL ONLINE)

1. Open your personalized link. Your participant code is already filled in, so there is nothing to set up.
2. You will see 24 short records, unlabeled and in random order.
3. For each record, give your judgment as prompted on the page, based on the record alone.
4. Click Submit. Your work saves automatically, so you can do a few at a time and come back. Nothing to download, nothing to email.

PLEASE USE YOUR OWN JUDGMENT

There is nothing to prepare and nothing to read in advance. Your own unaided professional read of each record is exactly what the study is measuring, so please complete it directly rather than researching the project first. Judge the record itself, not the topic and not whether the underlying decision was right.

SCOPE AND TIMELINE

- 24 records in total. About one hour of work. A first batch of six takes about fifteen to twenty minutes; the full set is roughly an hour.
- Completing the full set by the end of the first week of August, 2026 is ideal.

CONFIDENTIALITY AND USE

Constructed, de-identified records only. Nothing internal or confidential, and nothing tied to your firm or clients. You take part in a personal capacity, without cost or compensation. Your responses are recorded exactly as given and used, in aggregate, for the study's analysis and any resulting write-up.

RECOGNITION AND ACKNOWLEDGMENT

- A named contributor role on the project, credited as a reviewer (with your consent).
- A certificate of contribution, issued after your completion is confirmed.
- A written LinkedIn recommendation describing your contribution, on request.
- Featured by name among the international panel of professionals in any publication or write-up, with your permission.

Phillip Wikes

Creator, Justification Review Standard (JRS)

info@jrsstandard.com · jrsstandard.com